

JASON FREEMAN

I have been Legal Director of Consumer in the OFT since August 2008. Before that I was an OFT legal adviser and previously practiced at the Bar of England and Wales. I currently head up the OFT's internet enforcement work, as part of which I am building our capability to take on internet investigations and to take effective action against illegal trade practices on the internet. I am also working on an OFT project to design a long term internet enforcement strategy for UK enforcers, and I am responsible for the OFT's involvement in LAP.
