

MAARTEN KLIJN

Maarten Klijn is a senior policy officer in the Chair's Office of the Dutch Independent Post and Telecommunications Authority, OPTA. He has been working in OPTA since 1998, starting as senior consultant on numbering and registration issues. Since 2005 he occupies his present function. Since beginning of 2009 Maarten is involved in OPTA's botnet project.

Maarten was born and raised in Breda (the Netherlands). In 1983, after high school he joined the Royal Dutch Navy to become Weapon Engineering Officer in 1986. After ten years of service Maarten switched to Randstad uitzendbureau, the largest temporary work agency of the Netherlands, where he worked for two years as manager. In 1998 he joined OPTA. Maarten is master of science in electro technical engineering and has been studying business administration for several years as well.

Maarten is 44 and lives in Voorschoten (the Netherlands) with his wife and their three children.