NISHIMATSU

Was an experienced switching system designer in a telephone company, where he developped several message switching systems and IN switches.

He moved to Japan Data Communications Association and curretly he is responsible for collaborative activities with ISPs and foreign reguratory authorities and also responsible for consultation to Spam victims.