

Jean-Louis Rouvière

Jean-Louis Rouvière received his engineer Diploma at the Ecole Polytechnique in 2004 and at the Ecole nationale supérieure des télécommunications de Paris in 2005.

In 2005 he joined the Secrétariat général des affaires européennes in Paris, under the authority of the Prime minister, to coordinate France's official positions at the Council of the European Union in the telecommunication and research sectors.

In 2007 he joined the direction of spectrum planning and international affairs at the Agence nationale des fréquences. He is currently supervising the planning activities for broadcasting services, in relation with the Conseil supérieur de l'audiovisuel and the Comité stratégique pour le numérique and in the context of digital television extension, analogue switch-over and digital dividend.