

SHORT BIO
Chris Atherton

Chris is a Senior Research Engagement Officer at GÉANT, an e-infrastructure organisation providing cutting-edge pan-European networking, and trust and identity services exclusively for the research and education community. His role focuses on supporting international user communities and organisations, as well as identifying new technical and political solutions to specific research requirements and challenges. Chris has over 15 years' experience working in the IT and Space industry prior to joining GÉANT and holds a BSc (Hons) in Computer Networks and Security.