Fatima,

I should have also sent my email to zero-rating@anacom.pt as noted in the letter.

Kind regards,
Richard Hohenstein

Fatima,

Lycamobile understand Anacom letter as a request for comments on “zero rating”. As Lycamobile understand, Zero-rating is the practice of providing Internet access without financial cost under certain conditions, such as by only permitting access to certain websites or by subsidizing the service with advertising. Commentators discussing zero rating often present it as a subtopic of net neutrality.

Lycamobile does not engage in zero rating. The consumer is free to use their data allowance to access any internet content they choose without restriction. Therefore, Lycamobile does not have any comments to make to the consultation.

Best regards,
Richard Hohenstein
