

Alex Blowers

Ofcom Role:
International Director

Alex Blowers is International Director at Ofcom, responsible for Ofcom's engagement with key international institutions and for negotiations within the European Union. He joined Ofcom in January 2004 and was Project Director for the Strategic Review of Telecommunications completed by Ofcom in 2005.

Alex's early career was spent in the public sector. In 1991 Alex joined the DTI team implementing the Duopoly Review, and then spent three years at Oftel in the mid-1990s working on strategic market-opening projects. Alex also worked on competition policy issues at the DTI, and on European policy issues at the Cabinet Office. Before joining Ofcom, Alex spent six years with cable company NTL, latterly as Director of Regulatory Affairs.
