

Ronaldo Mota Sardenberg

Ambassador Ronaldo Mota Sardenberg is the President of the National Telecommunications Agency (Anatel) of Brazil, since July 2n, 2007.

Prior to this appointment, Ambassador Sardenberg was the Permanent Representative of Brazil to the United Nations in New York, from 2003 to 2007 and from 1990 to 1994, having also acted, from 1985 to 1990, as the Brazilian Ambassador to Moscow and Madrid.

From 1995 to 1998, Ambassador Sardenberg was Chief of the Secretariat of Strategic Affairs of the Presidency of Brazil, supervising nuclear and outer-space policies and research on communications security, among other activities.

As the Minister of Science and Technology from 1999 to 2002, Ambassador Sardenberg was responsible for the nuclear and outer-space activities, as well for a large member of the others Programs such as National Programs on the Information Society; Basic Industrial Technology; for the Social Development; and Climate change and Meteorology.