

Short CV

Cátia Felisberto obtained her graduation in Economics at Universidade Técnica de Lisboa - Instituto Superior de Economia e Gestão (1999) and the Master of Science in Economics degree at UNIL - Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales (2003), with a Master's thesis entitled "The impact of immigration on social security: the case of Switzerland". In 2007 she also obtained the certificate from the Study Center Gerzensee for the successful conclusion of the Swiss Program for Doctoral Students in Economics.

From 1999 until 2003 she worked at KPMG Portugal during one year and at ExxonMobil - Esso Portuguesa during two years in Bulk/Piped LPG department.

Cátia Felisberto is since 2004 a research associate at the Chair Management of Network Industries at Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne, where she is preparing a Doctorate thesis on the effect of liberalisation and competition on innovation in the network industries, with particular focus on the postal sector.